"BAPTIST NIGHT" BRINGS BIG CROWD

EVANGELIST PREACHES ON LIFE OF SAMPSON

Draws Striking Lesson From the Strong Man's Various Experiences—Excellent Music Rendered by the Big Choir—To Night Will be "Methodist Night."

Last night's service attracted an audience which comfortably filled the big tent on King street to hear the second sermon in the religious campaign by Evangelist Gypsy Smith, Jr., It was Baptist night and members of those churches turned out en masse, occupying pews in the central section of the tabernacle.

The big choir did splendid work and was especially good in the special number rendered "Glad Crowning Day". Mr. Cole sang very effectively, "The Old Fashioned Faith," while the evangelist delighted all by singing "How you will love Him when you know Him," as a prelude to his sermon. The opening prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. E. B. Jackson of the First Baptist Church.

Evangelist Smith chose Sampson as his subject speaking from the text found in Judges 16:30. Among other things he said:

"I think the deeds of some of the men in the Bible were far more potent than anything they said. The acts of the Apostles are worth more than anything they wrote. The words of Paul mean more to me since I know his life. Samson stirs me more profoundly than any Old Testament character. He is the type of so many Christians. They start well and run for a season, but are later tripped and make a horrible mess of their lives.

"I like to view his life in four great epochs or acts. First, his life crowned with the laurels of victory. Second, a fool, sneered at by a fawning spirit. Third, a slave, dethroned and demoralized. Fourth, coming forth from darkness, crowned with victory.

"No one ever started with a brighter future than Samson. Who is not thrilled as they read the dramatic stories of his young manhood? Do you want to know the secret of his success? He surrendered to a higher power. No Christian can ever be of any service if he is unwilling to surrender. Samson never took any excuse for defeat. Some folks say—of course I don't mean in Alexandria, but in other places where we have been—'You can't do anything here;' it is such a hard old town, the people are so conservative'. What an opportunity to challenge God's power and claim His promises! Surrender to Him. We sing 'Where He leads me, I will follow;' but it never gets farther than the throat. We used to mean it, but we don't now. How is it that we don't do something, don't ever help save a soul? Because we are not willing to surrender.

"Why did Samson fall? He could not take care. He lost his strength, he lost his judgeship, he lost his freedom, all through fooling with his weakness. Ninety-nine out of one hundred Christians who have gone down, have fallen through the same process—fooling with their weakness. The devil knows my weak place and he never attacks at any other place. He always comes at the unguarded moment. Don't fool with your weakness.

"I know of no worse hell than to have once known Christ and then to have lost Him. You say, is it possible to lose Christ? Yes, it is possible to be so close as to touch Him, and then go away— the rich young ruler did. It is possible to eat and drink with Him and then betray Him—Judas did. It is possible to have Him with you in your dying hours and then curse Him—the thief on the cross did.

'But Sampson came back and crowned his life with victory. If you have been a fool, don't stay down, but reconsecrate and regain your power.

"The cheap intellectual kind of a gospel, that does not make us right the wrongs is no good."

Gypsy Smith, Jr., Epigrams

"If you want to save Alexandria, I know a plan that wont fail. Draw a chalk line around yourself, drop on your knees and ask God to start a revival inside the circle.

"I'd rather save the kids of Alexandria than the grayheads. Save an old man, and you save one; save a child and you have saved a multiplication table."

"I'd rather build a fence around the top of a precipice than a hospital at the bottom."

"I'd rather save young men now than go through the red light district of Washington singing 'where is my Wandering Boy?'

'Mind your own business, and you will succeed, for you will have so few competitors."

"Nobody can make me sin, not even the devil. I am what I want to be."

"The devil is no fool. He has been at his game several thousand years. He is a master at strategy.."

"Do your own house cleaning; you have cleaned mine long enough."

Girl's Appreciation of a Joke Brings on Heart Paroxysm

Pottsville, Pa. Sept. 6.—An investigation by the Coroner shows that Mary Bofano, a pretty girl, aged 16, who fell dead on South Centre street Sunday, laughed herself to death when her lover with whom she was walking, told her a joke. A heart paroxysm followed, with almost instant death.

She had several attacks similar to this on previous occasions, when she laughed, unusually hearty but they never before reulted seriously.

CLUE IN MURDER

Victim Well-Known in White Light District, is Report.

New York, Sept, 6.— Detectives today turned to the white lights of Broadway in hopes that they may cast some light on the murder of Dwight Dilworth, lawyer, in "Lover's Lane," Van Cortland Park, Sunday night.

That Dilworth was well known along Broadway and in its resorts became known when "Dolly" Rogers, an actress, said she had introduced Dilworth to Mary McNiff, who was his companion on the night of the crime.

Jealousy of some of Broadway's women, is being put forward as a possible cause of the murder. Dolly Rogers, however, expressed the opinion to detectives that "Dear Old Dwight" might have been murdered by private detectives, frightened out of their caution while trying to get something on him.

Two of Van Cortlandt Park's "ball snatchers"—ragged young men who lurk in the woods and brush just off the fair green of the golf course and retrieve lost balls which they sell to players at cut rates —are being sought by detective as the possible murderers of Dilworth.

Miss McNiff returned to her home yesterday, managing the affairs of the Nuvak Company, which she controls. She said that she was ready to go anywhere by police request to try to identify a suspect or to indicate as best she could just how the murder was done, but that not such request had been received.

The Montclair Lodge of Masons held a funeral service over Dilworth's body in a Montclair undertaker's chapel last night. The body was then sent to Fort Scott, Kansas, as Mrs. Dilworth had directed.

One man was killed outright, another so badly injured that he died later and the wives of both injured yesterday when a northbound passenger train on the Pennsylvania railroad struck their automobile at the Centreville grade crossing, y6 miles south of York, Pa, All the victims were residents of Westminster, Md.

FAVORS BUYING ISLES.

But Senate Committee Report Is Expected to go Over.

Washington, Sept. 6—A report from the Foreign Relations Committee, recommending ratification of the treaty with Denmark for purchase of the Danish West Indies for $25,000,000, was submitted to the Senate late yesterday in executive session. Senator Stone, chairman of the committee, announced that he would call the treaty up some time tomorrow and move its ratification.

Probability of the treaty being ratified at this session of Congress, however, is regarded as remote. Senator Stone said no effort would be made to delay adjournment if opposition to ratification developed. Senator Borah for one is opposed to the purchase, and his objection would serve to send the treaty over until the next session.

Copenhagen, Denmark, Sept. 6—In the event of the present negotiations for a coalition cabinet succeeding, general elections probably will be avoided and the question of the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States will be settled by a plebiscite in Denmark and in the three islands affected. Conservative Leader Ellinger says he expects the negotiations will succeed and that in the event Christopher Hage, at present Minister of Finance, would become premier with Foreign Minister Scavenius remaining in his present position.

To the proposal of the Entente Allies that neutrals accept the principle that all submarines are vessels of war the United States has dispatched a reply, which, it is understood, holds to the principle that the characteristics of each individual submersible must govern the case. To the contention in the Allied memorandum, that it is difficult, if not impossible, for warships to distinguish between armed and merchant submarines, the American reply is understood to point out that it is equally difficult to distinguish between sailing merchant vessels, which may have masked batteries.

A gold watch belonging to Mrs. Joseph Ramsay was stolen from her home on King street, between Pitt and St. Asaph, yesterday. A colored woman named Buelah Gaines was arrested on suspicion of taking the timepiece, and she was arraigned in the Police Court this morning. The woman was dismissed for want of evidence. The watch is valued at $90.

PRESSURE PUT ON CHINA

Secret Demands of Japan Threaten To Bring About Serious Situation

Washington, Sept. 6— Secret demands, in addition to those published yesterday in dispatches from Peking, being pressed on China by Japan as a result of the recent clash of Chinese and Japanese troops at Cheng Chiatun, Ie became known Monday night that the situation is much more serious than has been indicated, confidential reports saying the unpublished demands threaten the authority of China over the whole of inner Mongolia.

Officials here view the development with real anxiety, fearing another China-Japanese crisis, which might involve the interests of the United States. The Chen Chiatun incident, trivial in itself, but coming on top of the strained relations ever since Japan took over Kiaochow from Germany, has been closely watched since Japan hastened to send 2,000 soldiers to the disturbed district, and her Cabinet announced that a satisfactory outcome depended on China. Reports from Peking show alarm there. The prompt and unanimous acceptance of the new Cabinet announced yesterday is believed to have been a result of the seriousness of the Japanese and financial problems.

METHODIST MINISTER SHOT

Man with Whose Wife Wrongdoings Were Alleged Held on Charge Of Murder.

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 6—The Rev. J. E. Harrison, a Methodist minister, was shot and killed on Saturday at Shady Grove, Ala., by shots alleged to have been fired from the home of Will Trotter, according to a report received here. Trotter, who is in the Troy jail, charged with murder, is said to have confessed to the shooting, with the claim that he "was fully justified."

Harrison, who is said to have been suspended from his ministerial duties at Shady Grove, was awaiting a hearing September 8 before a committee of ministers on charges of misconduct. The charges, it is said, connected Harrison's alleged wrongdoings with the name of Trotter's wife, organist in the minister's church.

FRENCH EXTEND THEIR GAINS

Village, Hospital, Farm and Woods Captured in Fight

TEUTONS IN ROUMANIA

Five Hundred Greek Reservists Not Allowed to Leave Athens to Sail For United States

Paris, Sept. 6—The French troops have captured the village of Ommiecourt, hospital farm, Rainnette Wood and part of Marrieres Wood and progressed in other regions north of the Somme, according to the official communication issued by the War Office.

South of the Somme a furious battle raged throughout yesterday. The French captured a line of German trenches and repulsed all counter-attacks. The prisoners captured since September 3, number 6,550 and the cannon 36.

Vigorous counter-attacks were made by the Germans north of the Somme Monday night in an effort to regain ground taken in the new drive of the French. The announcement says the Germans were repulsed with heavy losses.

The German assaults north of the Somme were delivered between Combles and Forest. South of the river unsuccessful blows were struck by the German east of Belloy. In these operations the French took 100 prisoners.

The activities of the French are again being hindered by bad weather which prevailed all night over the whole Somme front. The French are organizing their newly won ground.

The fighting now going on for the town of Thiepval, in the Somme region, well deserves to be called a 'great battle," says the authorized correspondent at the front of La Liberte. Monday night it was in progress over a front of 24 miles, extending from Barleux to the extreme left of the British forces resting on the Ancre.

The scene of the attack, continues the correspondent, may be divided into two parts, one running from Thiepval to Clery, half of which is held by the British and half by the French, the point of junction being Falfemont farm.

The object of these forces, says the correspondent, is Comples, the key to the approach to Bapaume, now a veritable fortress held by the Germans.

The capture of Soyecourt and Chilly by the French Monday makes a total of 29 villages taken since the start of the offensive on the Somme front. The positions wrested from the Germans were powerfully organized.

At Barleaux, one of the strongest positions on this front, repeated direct attacks were unsuccessful and the French finally resorted to a turning movement, attacking to the southwest. The Germans counter attacked no less than six times in a desperate effort to regain lost ground.

The smashing blows which General Foch has delivered north and south of the Somme have transformed the pointed wedge in the German lines into a square block, which will hammer General von Gallwitz's defenses till Combles, Peronne, Bapaume flal and the German retreat from the Noyon salient is a military necessity.

With the extension of the battle to the south of the Somme yesterday 1,500,000 men were locked into a five-hour struggle, the upshot of which was a distinct gain of ground, prisoners and guns for the Allies.

London, Sept. 6—British troops in battles Monday night in the region of the River Somme, in France, increased their gains in the neighborhood of Guillemont says the British official statement.

The British forces pushed forward to 1,500 yards east of Guillemont village and secured a hold on Leuze wood.

Farther south a strong German system of defense on a front of 3,000 feet around Dealfemont farm was captured.

The official announcement says that the fighting on the Somme since September 3 has resulted in the capture by the British of the whole of the remaining German second line of defense on the battle front from Mauquet Farm to the point where the British lines joins the French.

BRITISH TAKE LEUSE WOOD

Fresh German Defeat on Second Anniversary of Marne

TEUTON SPIRIT WANES

Repeated Attacks Against Newly-Won French Positions Broken Up By Heavy Fire.

London Sept. 6.—British troops captured the whole of Leuse wood, a mile northeast of Combles, in heavy fighting last night, General Haig reported this afternoon. A successful gas attack opposite Gommecourt is also reported.

Desperate fighting is going on between Combles and Ginchy.

Paris, Sept., 6.—Repeated German attacks against the newly - won French positions south of the Somme were broken up by French barrage fire last night, it was officially announced today.

The German assaults reached their greatest violence at Deniecourt and Berny-en-Santere. North of the Somme the Germans made no counter-attack during the night but artillery was active at all points.

The lack of spirit displayed by the Germans in counter-attacks of the last two days offers evidence, according to French military men, of the severe shock to the German morale of the Anglo-French victories in this week's fighting on the Somme.

The second anniversary of the beginning of the battle of the Marne, which turned the German tide from the gates of Paris, was celebrated here today, while Paris took stock of the new successes on the Somme. The principal celebrations, however, will be held next Sunday.

Petrograd, Sept. 6—In the direction of Valdimir-Volynski, on the upper Sereth, Volhynia, Russian troops, in battles lasting from Thursday to Saturday, captured 115 Teuton officers and 4,514 men. They also took six cannon, 35 machine guns and four mine throwers. This information was contained in the Russian official statement issued yesterday.

Berlin, Sept. 6—There has been no cessation of the heavy fighting in Galicia since the inauguration of the new Russian drive. The official announcement says the Russians attacked repeatedly Monday in the vicinity of Brzezany, 50 miles southwest of Lemberg, but were driven back by the German troops.

Berlin, Sept. 6—The German and Bulgarian army which is invading Eastern Roumania has carried by storm the fortified advanced position at the bridgehead of Tutrakan, the War Office announces. The Bulgarians have taken the town of Doric.

Rome, Sept. 6—Several commanding positions of the Austrians on Punta De Forane, at the end of the Rio Felizon valley in the upper Bovi, were captured Saturday night by detachments of Italian infantry, Alpini and volunteers, says the Italian official statement. All the Austrian counter-attacks were repulsed.

Athens, Greece, Sept. 6—Five hundred discharged Greek reservists, all of them having places of residence in the United States, were not permitted to embark yesterday for New York owing to the possibility of their being called out in the new mobilization of the Greek Army.

The men made a demonstration in front of the office of the Prime Minister and were dispersed by the police without any untoward incident. Steamers scheduled to sail from Greek ports for New York have postponed their departure.

The change is regarded as the result of a vigorous protest by Premier Zaimis to the Anglo-French Ministers Greece regarding the arrests by Allied police.

DEATH OF MISS TEBBS

One of Alexandria's Oldest Residents Passes Away After Two Weeks' Illness.

Miss Ann Lawson Tebbs, one of Alexandria's oldest and best known residents, died late last night after an illness of less than two weeks, at her home, 603 Queen street. The deceased was in the eighty-eighth year of her age.

Miss Tebbs was born in Dumfries, Prince William county, Va., the daughter of the late Dr. Fousher Tebbs, of Dumfries, and Margaret Tyler Tebbs, of Middleburg.

After the civil war Miss Tebbs was associated with her sister, and Miss Eliza Garber in the conducting of the Belle Haven Institute, a well-known school for girls in this city of that day. Later she taught in smaller schools.

In spite of the infirmities of advanced age, Miss Tebbs kept her mental faculties undimmed to the last hour. Her christian character was of the highest type, blending in a remarkable way sterness of principle with the utmost kindness of heart and she was a devoted member of Christ Church.

Surviving her are her great-nephew, James Douglas McLean, of this city, who is a lieutenant in the Alexandria Light Infantry, and a cousin, Miss Constance Tyler, with whom she had lived for many years. She also leaves a cousin, Judge Richard Tebbs, of Leesburg, Loudoun county.

Funeral services for the deceased will be conducted tomorrow at 5 p. m. from her late home by Rev. W. J. Morton, rector of Christ Church. Interment will be in Leesburg.

WORK ON NEW SILK MILL

Foundation Being Prepared at Southwest Corner of Wilkes and Pitt Streets.

As has been stated in the Gazette, the Klatts Silk Mill, on south Pitt street, is to be materially enlarged, and when a new structure shall have been reared the plant will virtually extend on the west side of Pitt street to Wilkes. Ground has been broken at the southwest corner of Wilkes and Pitt streets for the new building, or, more properly, for the enlargement of this important manufacturing plant of Alexandria.

The site upon which the new building will be erected is that upon which the new foundry was situated, a structure which was reared in the fifties, at a time when Alexandria contained a locomotive works at the foot of Wolfe street on the site of the present Alexandria County Electric Light Works. The new foundry was to be used in connection with this enterprise. The locomotive works, however, encountered trouble and it was finally resolved to shut down. This carried down the new foundry also, and the building remained idle until the civil war, when it was used by federal cavalrymen as a stable for their horses. In 1872 lightning knocked out the east front, and about a quarter of a century ago high wind gave the building its coup de grace.

The Klatts Company has awarded the contract to a Fredericksburg firm, and the members will endeavor to employ Alexandria mechanics in building the new structure.

OLD PATRON OF COURT

Familiar Face Again at the Bar This Morning. Dismissed on Latest Charge

During the past twenty years a woman named Ida Evans, whose main weakness is inability to control her temper, has on sundry and divers occasions been before the Police Court. Bertie Higgins, a relative, and Ida have never been able to live in the same neighborhood in peace. Like the Montagues and Capulets, there is no such thing as peace between them. If they appear at a street crossing and their eyes meet trouble is inevitable. The hatchet will never be buried until one or the other shall have passed beyond this vale of tears.

Ida was released from jail yesterday morning after having served a three-months' term. She had not been at home but a few minutes before she met her enemy. There was trouble immediately and Ida was again in the dock this morning, having been arrested at the instance of the Higgins woman. The latter opened a small parcel and exhibited a lock of her golden hirsute adornment which she alleged her antagonist had pulled out by the roots. Justice Caton, however, was not so sure the hair had been pulled out or it might have been detached by scissors. Hence he told her to wrap up the lock. The complainant further testified that the prisoner turned her tongue upon her about eight o'clock yesterday morning and never ceased her loquacity until five in the afternoon. Witnesses were put upon the stand, including Officer Power, who controverted this statement, the officer stating that he was in the neighborhood and heard no disorder. The accused was dismissed, and she was profuse and dramatic in her thanks to the justice who had refused to send her to jail.

EXCITING RUNAWAY

Thrilling Scene on Pitt Street, Between King and Cameron, Yesterday.

Early yesterday afternoon persons near the junction of King and Pitt street were treated to a scene that usually appears only in the movies, when a horse ran away with a heavy wagon, the driver sitting on the front seat in a helpless condition, as the vehicle was making such speed that he could not get off.

The bridle had broken near the bit and fell from the horse's head, and the horse started on a mad dash down King street, until it reached Pitt. There the frightened animal turned to the right and kept on at its terrific speed, when J. Frank Ballenger, who was in the vicinity, took in the situation at a glance, and ran, caught up with the horse, and with one amazing leap, jumped astride his back, leaned over and held the horses nose, cutting off its wind.

Thus was the run-away stopped and pedestrians and vehicles in imminent danger of collision saved from accident.

HENRY A. WISE'S CAMPAIGN.

A writer in the Richmond Journal reproduces some of the interesting history of [illegible] memorable campaign of Henry [illegible] "Knownothingism" which disturbed the country [illegible] Among other things he says:

Henry A. Wise was the most powerful, effective and dramatic [illegible] who ever appeared on the hustings and court greens of Virginia. In the gubernatorial campaign of 1856, in which he defeated Thomas S. Flournoy, he canvassed the state from the Chesapeake bay to the Blue Ridge mountains. It was a memorable campaign. Flournoy made no speeches but Wise spoke in every county in the state. This was the time when the so-called "Knownothing" Party made its appearance. This party did not put forward speakers, but its members met in secret conclave, in consequence of which it was called by its opponents, the "Black-lan[illegible]" [illegible] its shibboleth was "Sure [illegible]" when one of its members met another the salutation was: "Have you [illegible]" to which the answer was: "I put out a [illegible]" [illegible] the rise of the [illegible]

[illegible] made his speech in Fredericksburg, I happened to be present. He held the booklet in his hand, and read parts of it to the audience. After denouncing the secret methods of a "dark-lantern party" as dangerous, and as contrary to open-campaign methods that had hitherto prevailed in Virginia, he rose on foot in tiptoe style and exclaimed: "I will follow Sam; I will catch Sam. I will take Sam by the throat; and then by the altars and the gods, I will kill Sam, and then I'll stamp his guts out." The effect of this dramatic denunciation upon the audience is indescribable.

The above will recall to the minds of some now living the appearance of Wise in Alexandria during those exciting times. A meeting of persons hostile to the new party was held in old Liberty Hall. The auditorium was densely packed. In an auditorium known as American Hall in the same building a meeting of the "Knownothing Club" of the city was being held. Wise, as he did in Fredericksburg, held the booklet in his hand from which he read at times. There were a few "Knownothings" in his audience, and the speaker was occasionally interrupted, but Wise, who was a stranger to fear, struck dramatic attitudes at times and defied the enemies present as well as those in the room under him. Wise made speeches in Washington during that campaign. On one occasion he had started to speak by saying: "We have met the enemy with his visor down." The meeting was being held in the open air, and catcalls and groans were so loud that he was not able to utter anything else, to the great disappointment of the crowd that had gathered. There were "Knownothing" riots in those days, some of which resulted seriously. The issues which finally brought on the war between the states cast "Knownothingism" into a total eclipse, and the party was eventually interred alongside the "Anti-Masonry" gang which had expired years before.

WHO WANTED WAR?

In Missouri Mr. Hughes treated the boast of the Democrats that the President has kept us out of war as a trifling matter. "There was not the slightest reason," he assured the gaping Republicans in front of him, "why anyone should get us into war. You couldn't get this country into war without making most inexcusable blunders.

Mr. Hughes was addressing an audience which he had been told was largely German-American.

The Philadelphia Record in commenting upon candidate Hughes utterances says if he asks who wanted war, we have no hesitation in assuring him that practically all of his party, except the German-Americans, wanted to get us into war. and have been denouncing Mr. Wilson as a coward because he did not get us into war.

What expression of the President's is bandied back and forth by Republicans everywhere, with every tone of contempt? That sentence about being "too proud to fight." Mr. Wilson would not put this country into the European war, and all the Republicans who are not Teutons, from Theodore Roosevelt down, have been ringing all the changes on that sentence about being "too proud to fight." What do they mean by that? If they mean anything at all, except that they hate Mr. Wilson, they mean that the country ought to have engaged in the war, and that it would have done so if Mr. Wilson had not been a coward. That is precisely what Mr. Hughes' party has been clamoring for a year and a half, except, of course, the Teutonic element, which is blackguarding the President for coming so near to getting us into the war.

Nine-tenths of the Republican party have been clamoring against the President because he did not make war on Germany and Mexico, and their candidate tells the public we could not have got into war without committing inexcusable

SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE

The New York Evening Post, an independent journal, has the following to say of President Wilson's speech of acceptance:

Beyond all question, Mr. Wilson has penned a more brilliant document than his speech of acceptance. Remarkably eloquent, is free from the rhetoric which sometimes hampers his utterances, is on a high plane, and moves to its points with a straightforward clarity and force which mark it as the work of a past-master of style and a political strategist of the highest order. Let no one be misled: whether one agrees with the President or not, here is a challenge to put the Republicans to their trumps. Beside it Mr. Hughes' speeches shrink to smaller dimensions than ever, while Mr. Roosevelt's vituperative bitterness appears merely the familiar roaring of a corner politician. Nothing so far said or done since the campaign began approaches it. Mr. Hughes cannot rise to its height of vision, or its power. his will be a difficult position indeed. If any Republican has believed that Mr. Wilson would be an easy antagonist, he must be undeceived now.

Under the above heading the Gazette will be pleased to give reasonable space to any person who desires to make comment upon matters of general interest to the public. Writers will of course be responsible for their utterances. A a guarantee of good faith, the name and address of the writer of any article submitted for publication will be required in each instance.—Editor Gazette.

Editor Gazette:

May a mere patron of the public schools ask why the City School Board does not give a little more time and thought to the convenience of the hoi polloi when issuing permits? Of course, the members of their families are not subjected to these inconveniences; they are issued permits before the time set for the public, and it is only the unmitigated who suffer.

May I suggest that a railing or rope, be placed leading to the respective windows and the crowd informed by an officer that they must file in, one at a time, and the exit be kept clear so that those who have received permits can leave without a "free for all fight," also that the said officer stay near the crowd and make an effort to preserve order.

There is a grat deal of care taken about a health certificate. Shouldn't some thought be given to the fact that germs may be circulating in the crowd and when jammed as they are against a window or wall, the germs have a splendid opportunity to be communicated? In single file there would be less chance of contagion, it would seem.

In a town of this size things should be arranged with a little more system and forethought. It seems to me the patrons of the schools are entitled to better service than they receive when the school permits are issued. Citizen.

NEWS OF THE DAY

A proposition for an international conference of labor leaders with the evident object of forming an international federation of labor, was put forward yesterday at the Trade Unior Congress at Birmingham, England. It came from the American Federation of Labor.

A woman, who is believed to have been Mrs. Irene Landes, 24 years old, of Far Rockaway, threw herself from a window on the thirteenth floor of the Ansonia Hotel, New York, yesterday and was instantly killed. Workmen who were taking ashes from the court narrowly escaped being struck by the body.

Kerosene oil poured down a pump in front of the home of Jerome Hawkins, at Clarksville, Pa., by a party of campers as a joke resulted in a considerable monetary loss to many residents of the town, as well great excitement among men who swarmed into the village seeking oil leases wherever they could be had.

A terrible rainstorm, accompanied by a sixty-mile gale off the lake, broke over Chicago yesterday, causing much property damage. The Congregational Church in Oak Park, was struck by lightning and destroyed at a loss of $150,000. A $40,000 pipe organ was among the effects destroyed Trees were blown down, wires twisted, basements flooded and much other small damage wrought.

That Germany is preparing to take action against Greece as a result of that country's submission to the demands of the entente, which include the expulsion of all Teutonic agents from the country, is indicated in dispatches from Amsterdam. The fact that Greece has allowed armed forces from allied battleships to hunt down German and Austrian subjects in the streets of Athens, is considered an utter violation of neutrality, and it is reported that an ultimatum is in process of preparation at Berlin.

A strike intended to tie up every transit line in New York including the subway and elevated, is threatened within seventy-two hours. Arbitration has been offered by the employes. It has been refused by the Interborough Company, both President Shonts and Vice President Hedley standing firm against yielding to any of the demands. The fight is over the recognition of the union. Within the past couple of weeks the Interborough has signed about 8,000 of their employes on working contracts. Many of the men signed are members of the union and claim they were coerced into signing. The contracts do not recognize the union and contain an antistrike agreement. Union leaders insist on the recognition of the union.

Representative S. Hubert Dent, Jr., of Montgomery, Ala., was yesterday elected by the House to succeed Representative Hay, of Virginia, as chairman of the military affairs committee, beginning October 1.

Two "double" Zeppelins, each with a carrying capacity of 60 tons, have been constructed in Germany to carry mail between Berlin and the United States in 72 hours, according to Morris Epstein, who has returned to Chicago from Europe. Epstein said he had seen both the giant aircraft, one christened America and the other Deutschland.

Legislation of the most drastic character, that will permit of retaliation and reprisals against the allies and effectually stop the British blacklist policy was written into the general revenue bill by the Senate yesterday afternoon. An amendment proposed by Senator Thomas, of Colorado, and adopted without dissent, empowers the President to refuse clearance papers to any belligerent merchantmen that refuse American goods unless, and only, because of lack of cargo space. An attempt to sail without clarance is made punishable by heavy fines and imprisonment of two years. The ship may be seized by the government.

The United States government has been officially assured by Japan that the recent alliance formed by Japan and Russia will not affect the status quo in the Far East, according to an announcement in Tokyo yesterday.

With the name of Judge F. S. Tavenner, of Woodstock, added to the list for the successor of Judge Thomas W. Harrison, of the Seventeenth Judicial Circuit, who has been nominated to succeed James Hay, as congressman from the Seventh district, there are three names now mentioned for the judgship. The other two are Aubrey G. Weaver, of Front Royal, and Robert M. Ward of Winchester.

VIRGINIA NEWS

Paragraphs Picked Up Here and There Throughout the State.

Judge James Marcus Gregory, formerly judge of the Chesterfield county court, and until recently commonwealth attorney of the county, died yesterday at his home at Forest Hill. He was about seventy-five years old. As a member of Armstead's brigade, Judge Gregory served in Confederacy throughout the war between the states.

Charles T. Jennings, manager of the Roanoke Music Company, of Roanoke, was paralyzed Sunday in his automobile and died shortly afterward. Mr. Jennings and his wife went to Lynchburg to spend Sunday with relatives. As the machine was not in good running order Mr. Jennings suggested that he return alone and that his wife follow by train Monday. He left Lynchburg apparently in perfect health.

The German auxiliary cruiser Prince Eitel Friedrich and Kron Prinz Wilhelm, which have been interned at Norfolk for over a year, will be sent to Philadelphia within a month. With them will go the German village constructed by the crews of the interned ships and which occupies several acres of land in the navy yard. The space occupied by the village will be used for the construction of a new dry dock and there will be no room for the interned ships when the Norfolk yard begins the construction of warships for the navy. The German vessels will be convoyed to Philadelphia by American warships to prevent them being molested by allied cruisers off the Virginia capes.

Opening of Virginia schools for the new session will mark the greatest era of advancement in the history of education in this state, according to a statement issued by Superintendent of Public Instruction Stearnes in which is shown the tremendous progress which the schools have made in the last ten years. Enrollment of the state schools in that decade has advanced from 361,772 to 472,210 and the schools themselves have increased from 8,913 to 12,343. The number of teachers has grown from 9,072 to 12,510. The average salary of white teachers has been raised 80 per cent while that of the colored teachers now equals the salary drawn by white teachers in 1905. Perhaps the greatest increase is in the high schools which now number 572, whereas in 1906 there were only seventy-five. Keeping pace with these increases the annual school revenues have enhanced from $2,432,102 to $7,201,768. Value of school property is now $15,035,600 compared with $4,279,625.

Members of the Republican Executive Committee of Virginia held a conference in Representative Bascom Slemp's office in Washington yesterday to canvass the political situation in Virginia. The committee adjourned without deciding whether or not a G. O. P. candidate to oppose Senator Claude A. Swanson would be placed in the field. Another meeting will be held in Roanoke in 10 days. Strong opposition developed to the movement to oppose Senator Swanson. "There is no chance to defeat Senator Swanson with a simonpure Republican candidate," said Committeeman McGavock of the Ninth District. "Democrats will vote for him against a Republican. We have a fight on our hands in the Ninth district, and I for one think we should work to insure the re-election of Representative Slemp. That is about all the Republicans have any hope of accomplishing in Virginia this year. I can see nothing to be gained in fighting Swanson."

George P. Manro, probably the oldest man in Virginia, died Monday at his home in Harrisonburg. His age was 107 years, eight months and ten days. He was born in Edinburg, Scotland, on Christmas Eve, 1808. He lived with his parents in Ireland for fifty years and came to Canada in 1863, going to Cleveland, Ohio, at the close of the war. He then came to Virginia. On the day after Christmas 1867, he married Mis Sarah D. Wood, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Wood, of Flint Hill, Rappahannock county. She was a native of Page county, and died eighteen years ago.

"Cooney," Dr. Cary T. Grayson's half-breed boyhood hunting companion, was not in his accustomed place on the station platform at Culpeper yesterday when the special train carrying President Wilson from Hodgenville, Ky., to Washington, pulled into Culpeper. The President and his physician came out and were looking anxiously about for the gaunt figure when some one in the waiting crowd handed up this note, addressed to Dr. Garrison: "Your friend, Cooncy, was caught in a crap game last night, and is locked up. He regrets he cannot see you, but hopes you will give his regards to the President.'" Senator John Sharp Williams, a member of the President's party, suggested that when Washington was reach a telegram be sent to the Governor of Virginia urging a pardon.

Robert Meade was shot and dangerously wounded by William Hall at the latter's home, near Meltons, Louisa county, on Monday afternoon. Hall used a revolver and fired at Meade five times, three or more shots taking effect. Young Hall, accompanied by W. R. Dunkum, of Geren Springs, at once left for Louisa Courthouse, where he remained all night before a county officer was found to whom he gave himself up. He is now in the jail at that place.

John McWhorter, nine years old, was drowned in the canal at Richmond yesterday afternoon. The boy was in the vicinity when a still alarm for a small fire was sounded and he attempted to cross the canal, which leads to the power house of the Virginia Railway and Power Company, on a narrow girder. He missed his footing in his hurry and fell into the water.

Unprecedented increases in the price of practically every grade of paper used by the State of Virginia for the printing of its official reports and documents will increase the paper bill of the State Printing Office from $10,000 to $15,000 this year, and cause an increase of $25,000, it is estimated by Superintendent Davis Bottom, in the aggregate paper bill of all the State departments.

WRECK AND RUIN

may be visited upon a man at short notice, and misery if not physical collapse may be occasioned by the worry and suffering. Just think, a fire insurance policy is a panacea for these great tragedies of flame, smoke and water, which on occasions wipe out almost an entire city. Be protected in a substantial company which has a heavy surplus designed to tide over those great catastrophies.
